IMPOSSIBLE FOR EXPERTS TO IDENTIFY

Marine Monster's Remains Possibly Those of Orfish or Sea Cow

HOOKED BRISTLES PUZZLE SCIENTISTS

PRINCE RUPERT, Nov. 23 (CP).—The strange marine monster found on Henry Island, which many persons believe may be the remains of British Columbia's famous sea serpent, Cadborosaurus, was possibly only an orfish or sea cow, Dr. Neal Carter, director of the fisheries experimental station here, said today.

"Identification is not possible at present, however," Dr. Carter said, "and personally I do not care to express an opinion until further information is available."

DETAILED DESCRIPTION
The man who brought the remains of the monster here after it had been discovered on the rocky island by a fisherman, Hugo Sundstrom, gave a detailed description of the specimen as he examined it on the island.

"We found remains badly decomposed and eaten by seals lying below high tide at the end of a narrow bay, apparently washed in dead or trapped by rocks at low tide, about six weeks previously," he said.

"Having no bony limbs, the creature would have been a soft-bodied animal," he said. "The length was twenty-five feet from snout to the end of the last attached vertebrae; but detached vertebrae found on the beach indicated a possible total length of thirty-three feet."

HEAD LIKE A CALF
"There was a decomposed cartilaginous head like that of a calf, but this may have been the remains of a larger head. No lower jaw or teeth were found. Neck vertebrae were four inches in diameter, and those in the middle of the body seven inches of solid bone, with no

CENTRAL SALES BRING MILLIONS

Prime Minister Declares Wheat Policy Added to Growers' Wealth

CALGARY, Nov. 23 (CP).—Stabilization efforts in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, through the Central Selling Agency of the wheat pools, had brought $25,000,000 additional wealth to Western wheat growers, declared Prime Minister R. B. Bennett here tonight.

The Prime Minister, coming to Calgary, his home city, for a short visit, disclosed that he had conferred with John I. McFarlane, manager of the wheat pools' selling agency, while en route West to Brandon, after leaving Winnipeg.

The Royal Commission on Mass Buying, now in session in Ottawa, will not deal with minimum wages, Mr. Bennett stated, because the Supreme Court of Canada had ruled that the enforcement of the minimum wage law was in the control of the provinces.

After meeting numerous friends and political associates, Mr. Bennett addressed delegates to the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts Convention, and later visited several public schools, where he presented "Bennett scholarships" awards.

John I. MacFarlane, head of the Central Selling Agency of the Canadian wheat pools and Government purchasing agent, traveled from Winnipeg to Brandon with Mr. Bennett in order to give the Prime Minister a complete detailed account of the present wheat marketing situation.

CHINESE BURGLAR NOT SUCCESSFUL

Man Convicted in Vancouver Court Has Spent Thirty Years in Canadian Prisons

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23 (CP).—With more than thirty years of his life already spent in Canadian prisons, Chang, sixty-year-old Chinese, termed by City Prosecutor Oscar Orr "an unsuccessful burglar," now faced a further prison term of fifteen months for having burglarized in his possession.

The man's police record was produced in court, showing that, with intervals of but a few months between each of them, the prison terms he had served totaled more than thirty years. A few weeks ago, he completed a term of one year for an attempted burglary here.

May Take Off on Pacific Crossing From Long Beach

Canada-Australia Air Voyage
Captain Uim, with two companions, plans to fly from Canada to Australia by way of the Hawaiian and Fiji Islands. His plane was landed at Quebec by steamer from England on Tuesday.

From there he flew to Montreal, and yesterday continued on to Detroit, where he remained last night. His plans to continue on to the Pacific Coast went awry when certain papers, necessary to clear the customs, failed to arrive from Washington. His departure was deferred until early today.

TAKES SOUTHERN ROUTE
Accompanied by George Littlejohn, co-pilot, and Leo Skilling, navigator, Captain Uim planned to fly directly from Montreal to Vancouver, stopping at Winnipeg, but reports of unfavorable flying conditions caused him to take the southern route. He has made no announcement of the exact point from which he plans to take off on his ocean crossing, but reports from Vancouver state that there is only one field in the vicinity long enough for the heavily-loaded ship to gain

W. C. WOODWARD ENDORSED HERE

Island Shareholders of Bank of Canada Support Vancouver's Nominee

Shareholders of the Bank of Canada, at a meeting here last night, endorsed the nomination of the Vancouver Board of Trade of W. C. Woodward, departmental store proprietor, as British Columbia's representative on the bank's board of directors. No other names were submitted to the meeting, composed of twenty-one shareholders out of 215 for the whole of Vancouver Island.

The selection of Mr. Woodward was made mainly to concentrate on one nominee for the province, as it was considered by the shareholders more than one name might complicate a final selection, due to lack of time for other meetings before the close of nominations on December 5.

TO BE UNANIMOUS
The Island shareholders, however, reserve the right to alter their decision if a nominee, other than Mr. Woodward, is nominated.

Fatal Explosion Causes Loss of Million Dollars

MAHA, Neb., Nov. 23 (AP).—One man was killed, two missing and believed dead, and eight were injured in a terrific explosion that lifted the roof of the Cargill Grain Elevator here today and caused damages that elevator officials early estimated at $1,000,000 dollars. Blown seventy feet into the air, one workman fell back into a bin of corn and was unhurt.

DEATH TAKES NOTED JUDGE

Hon. W. A. Gallihier, Former Justice of Appeal in B.C., Passes at Home

Closing a colorful career in the political and judicial life of Western Canada and particularly British Columbia, Hon. William Alfred Gallihier, until July, 1933, one of the five judges of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, passed away in his sleep, yesterday morning, at his home, 914 St. Charles Street, following a long period of indifferent health. He was in his seventy-fourth year.

The late Mr. Gallihier was born in Bruce County, Ontario, in July, 1860, the son of Francis and Sarah (Kirkpatrick) Gallihier, and was educated in public and high schools at Collingwood. In 1885, he served with the Nile Contingent, under Lord Wolseley, for the relief of General Gordon. For this service with the Canadian Voyageurs, he was decorated with a medal and the Khedive's Star.

Called to the bar in 1890, he continued his study of law and was called to the Manitoba Bar in 1897 and for a time he practiced his profession in Winnipeg in the same office with Mr. Justice Archer Martin, now of the British Columbia Appeal Court and senior judge in Admiralty. He also practiced in Lethbridge, Rossland and Nelson, and at the time he was appointed to the first Appeal Court for British Columbia in 1909 he was practicing in Vancouver. He was admitted to the British Columbia Bar in 1907.

His first venture into the political field was in 1900 when he successfully contested the Kootenay seat for the Liberal party, in the Dominion elections held that year, his opponent being John Y. McKane. Mr. Gallihier was re-elected in 1904, over Hon. Charles Mackintosh, but declined nomination in the subsequent election and in 1909 was appointed a judge of the Appeal Court when that court was constituted for the province. His appointment continued until July, 1933, at which time he was retired on account of ill-health. He had not sat regularly

Heavy Rains Cause Death Near Athens

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 23 (CP-Havas).—Ten persons were reported dead today following torrential rains which inundated the low-lying country around the Greek capital. Numerous houses were said to have been razed by the rainstorm. Communications with Piraeus, Port of Athens, is interrupted.

Seven bodies have been recovered, thirty homes have been carried away by the floods, while hundreds of others have been inundated and 500 families are homeless.

Searching for Editor's Widow

Disappears While Police Investigating Death of Husband With Suspicion of Poison

PORT HOPE, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP).—Police tonight were notified of the disappearance of Mrs. Donald Wilson, wife of the late publisher and editor of The Port Hope Guide, who was believed by authorities to have been a victim of poison.

Blake Symonds, foster-father of Mrs. Wilson, informed police that Mrs. Wilson had disappeared and had taken her child. The foster-father said the woman disappeared about 8 or 9 o'clock tonight.

Provincial Constable Bill Carey, of Cobourg, in Port Hope investigating the death of the husband more than three weeks ago, was informed of the disappearance and authorities launched a search.

Germans at Border And Russians Ready To Help With Army

France Makes Outright Statement to Support Military Budget

GERMANY DEPLORES POISONOUS EFFECT

PARIS, Nov. 23 (CP-Havas).—Laying aside caution and the language of diplomacy to win a vote of approval for its enormous military budget, the Government of France today told the Chamber of Deputies the Germans were at the frontier and Russia was ready to send her armies to the assistance of France.

A military appropriation of $374,336,000 (5,689,000,000 francs) and special supplementary funds totaling $52,640,000 (800,000,000 francs) more were made available to the War Ministry by the Deputies.

Three Government officials sounded public warning that Germany is rearming and seeking alliances with Japan and Poland, and gave assurance that the Soviet army had been offered to France in the event of war.

"We do not want our children to know the horrors of war we have known," declared Leon Archimbaud, budget reporter, who on Monday unleashed a tide of national alarm by saying Germany soon will be able to place a 500,000-man army in case of war.

WARNINGS FROM MOSCOW
Revealing that warnings of Germany's bellicose intentions had come to Paris from Moscow, Deputy Jean Fabry declared: "Germany is only waiting to build up a powerful war machine to sacrifice her already strong man power."

War Minister Louis Marin reminded the chamber of the adage: "In time of peace prepare for war," and was greeted with resounding applause.

The pre-war situation of France aligning herself with Russia, hostile Germany between the two, thus was brought clearly into the open, and although French Government officials stressed there was no official military alliance with the U.S.S.R., observers found much significance in today's declarations.

The statements of the three men who, this week, have come into the international limelight, were made at Thursday's late budget debate and on resumption of the discussion this morning, when the war budget was voted without serious opposition and the emergency War Credit Bill also pushed through.

B.C. WHEAT WINS LEADING AWARDS

Ladner and Tappen Growers Take Championships at Royal Winter Fair at Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP).—British Columbia wheat growers entered the grain and seed show competition at the Royal Winter Fair for the first time this year, and tonight were awarded leading prizes. Championships for hard red spring wheat and the Royal Trophy for the best half-bushel of any wheat grown in a regular class, were captured by W. G. Gibson, of Ladner, B.C., with his Marquis wheat exhibit. The crown for any wheat other than hard red wheat also was won by British Columbia—William Rogers, of Tappen—who displayed Mindum wheat.

Right from the start of counting ballots it was a neck-and-neck race between the two veterans of political warfare, although the new mayor is much younger than his opponent. Mr. Queen is fifty-two years of age.

Winnipeggers had to go back to 1917 to find a closer battle for the mayor's chair. In that year David J. Dymov was first declared elected. He was mayor until January 5 the following year—less than two months when a recount unseated him and made Fred H. Davidson mayor. There has been no suggestion of a recount yet in today's voting.

POISONED WITH CHOCOLATE BAR

EDMONTON, Nov. 23 (CP).—Believing they may have a murder mystery on their hands, R.C.M.P. officers today were continuing investigations on a widening scale into the death of Martin Challman, thirteen, who died early this month at his farm home near Vermilion, after eating a chocolate bar found in the back seat of his father's car. The boy died from strychnine poisoning, and subsequently strychnine was found on the wrapper of the bar. The assumption is that the bar itself contained the deadly poison and that it had been planted in the car.

Divergency May Be Reconciled in Tri-Power Talks

British and Americans Are Hopeful That Japan May Soon Change Her Uncompromising Attitude on Actual Equality in Naval Ratio—Japanese Delegate Has 'Certain Ideas'

LONDON, Nov. 23 (CP).—Bearing out the British Governmental declaration that the tri-power naval talks have not broken down, there was a feeling in British and American circles tonight that Japan may yet change her erstwhile "uncompromising" attitude on her demand for parity with the fleets of the other two nations.

A highly important development was the initiative taken by Tameo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador, in arranging a meeting between himself and Norman Davis, United States ambassador-at-large, for Monday at the Japanese Embassy. This will be the first private talk between the principal American and Japanese delegates, and promises to end the long period of marking time.

DELEGATE'S IDEAS
Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, Japanese naval delegate, told the Canadian Press he had "certain ideas" of reconciling the divergencies between the negotiators, who for some time have been deadlocked between the Japanese insistence on parity and the unwillingness of Britain and the United States to grant parity at the present time.

Norman Davis stated at the outset that he had come to learn why Japan thought equality to security, a fundamental of the Washington treaty, had been upset, and why Japan should desire to change the 5-5-3 ratio of that treaty to parity all around. The Americans were convinced that, if Japan merely wanted to get rid of the treaty restrictions, she would never have come to London or entered any talks, he added. That could be done

EXTRA SESSION MAY BE ASKED

Hungary Demands Discussion by League of Charge of Complicity

GENEVA, Nov. 23 (AP).—The League of Nations heard today, that Hungary may demand an extraordinary session of the League to discuss Yugoslavia's charge of Hungarian "complicity" in the assassinations at Marseille.

Igor Eckhardt, Hungarian delegate who, last night, termed the Yugoslav allegations "an act of international terrorism," conferred today with J. A. C. Avenol, League secretary-general.

Meanwhile, Switzerland, alarmed at the agitation growing out of the charges and counter-charges, adopted special police precautions at the League Palace, Geneva hotels and frontiers.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 23 (CP-Havas).—Premier Julius Goemboes left Budapest secretly for Austria, at 11:40 o'clock, tonight, according to an authoritative report here.

The Hungarian leader was understood to have left for a meeting with the Austrian vice-chancellor, Ernst von Starheimberg, at a point in Austria, which has been kept secret.

FINDS MANY STORES GIVING SHORT-WEIGHT

Practice Widespread Across Whole Dominion Inspector Testifies at Inquiry

PROBLEM ALMOST BEYOND CONTROL

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP).—Any Canadian housewife inclined to wonder at the appetites of her family, judged by the grocery bill, might find a reason for the mystery in the evidence today before the Royal Commission on Mass Buying. A widespread practice of selling short weights in grocery stores all across Canada was disclosed.

Sutherland Cuddy, inspector of weights and measures for the Dominion Government, was the witness, and submitted a comprehensive report on short weights, based on an investigation made this year, and applicable particularly to chain stores.

FROM COAST TO COAST
Summarized, the results of the probe revealed that out of 1,133 items bought in 479 orders in cities and towns from Montreal to Vancouver, 559 items or 49.3 per cent were short weight, 509 items or 45 per cent were correct weight, and 65 items or 5.7 per cent were over-weight.

"I think it is one of the most disgraceful methods of cheating the public there is," commented Hon. H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce.

Mr. Cuddy said that since the development of chain stores and the adoption of the practice of packaging goods prior to sale, the problem of short weights had grown to such proportions as to challenge the existing machinery for enforcing the

ALL NATIONS IN LEAGUE IS AIM

Stanley Baldwin Emphasizes Importance of Strengthening Agency for Peace

GLASGOW, Nov. 23 (CP Cable).—The need for every great nation joining the League of Nations and strengthening it as an agency for international peace was emphasized in a speech here, tonight, by Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the council in the British Cabinet.

He also told an audience of 4,000 persons that state control of the arms traffic was the only means of averting malpractices.

A collective peace system such as advocated by the Labor Party—employment of joint forces under direction of the League—"is impracticable in view of the fact the United States is not, to our unbounded regret, a member of the League," he said, "and also in view of the defections of Germany and Japan from the League in the last two years."

USE OF BRITISH NAVY

"So long as I have responsibility in any government for deciding whether to join a collective peace system, and as an individual, never will I sanction the British navy being used for the armed blockade of any country in the world, until I know what the United States will do."

"We will never get a League of Nations with the power and influence it ought to have," he continued, "until the United States is a member. And the League cannot function as it should with Germany and Japan outside. Whether the United States will ever abandon her traditional policy I cannot tell. What we must do is go on working largely by faith to get back those who belonged and trust the day will come when the world circle will be complete by the admission of the United States."

EARTHQUAKES IN WYOMING SHARP

Violent Shocks During Severe Snowstorm Causes Residents to Run From Buildings

LANDER, Wyo., Nov. 23 (AP).—Earth shocks during a severe snowstorm, late today, caused a panic in Lander and the surrounding valley.

Persons ran from business buildings in downtown Lander as the disturbances, which lasted only a few minutes, were felt.

Residents here and for a radius of about ten miles reported dishes had been hurled from cupboards and pictures jarred from walls by the tremors.

No serious damage was reported.

"THE LOFT" TO DEFEND TROPHY

Reby Edmond's Brilliant One-Act Play Given Splendid Reception

"The Loft," a brilliant one-act play by a clever young Victoria author, Reby Edmond, who recently won signal honors in a California play-writing contest, will go to Vancouver to defend the Vancouver Little Theatre Trophy, held at the present time by the Forbes Robertson Players, Victoria.

The announcement was made last night at the Shrine Auditorium, following an evening of thrilling interest for friends of the authors of the four competing one-act plays. The win was immensely popular, as the spontaneous applause testified, and was all the more creditable to the playwright because of the calibre of the plays against which it was competing. The material throughout was of a very high standard of craftsmanship, something of which

INJURED AT CHILDBIRTH

Mother Tells in Sworn Statement How Fruit-a-Rives Brought Relief

Mrs. M. Seyffert, Toronto, Ontario, is so thankful for her lasting recovery from chronic constipation that she has kindly consented to swear before a notary a statement concerning her experience. She did so in order that other sufferers can be sure of its absolute truth. In her statement Mrs. Seyffert says, "I had injury I received at childbirth resulted in continued constipation. For years I felt run down, lacked all vitality. My complexion was yellow, I started taking Fruit-a-Rives and now I am up at 6:30 a.m. every morning doing my own housework. My complexion is clear and I am quite regular."

Mrs. Seyffert's experience is common to those who have tried Fruit-a-Rives. This famous remedy has brought lasting relief to thousands of men and women from constipation, indigestion, and similar ills. In fact so effective is Fruit-a-Rives that, today, it is the largest selling remedy of its kind in Canada.

Copy of Mrs. Seyffert's sworn statement will be sent on request. Write Fruit-a-Rives Limited, Ottawa, Canada.

every drama-loving Victorian should be really proud.

Whether the plays were adjudged merely as written work, or for all-round merit as productions, was not stated by Mrs. Reese-Burns, in announcing the decision of the adjudicators, Mrs. J. S. Dennis, Capt. T. L. Thorpe-Douglas, and Stuart Clark. Each play was produced under the customary festival conditions, viz., with a curtailed background and the minimum of properties. The Forbes Robertson Players, holders of the trophy from last year, furnished the actors in each instance, and while certain parts could have been strengthened with advantage, others were so superbly played that it was impossible to conceive the characters in any other form.

"THE LOFT"

This was particularly true in the case of at least three of the characters in Miss Edmond's winning play, "The Loft." This finely-constructed little fantasy, in many ways reminiscent of Barrie, or Milne, but with an individuality all its own, depended for presentation on Gertrude Macdonald Partridge, Rupert Sandry, Roy Shadbolt, and Doreen McGregor.

BITSY—CIRCUS GIRL

The evening's programme opened with Dorothy V. Oughton's clever play, "Bitsy," which uses for theme the story of a circus girl, a bareback rider, brought to a convent by her dying guardian, a circus clown, Audrey Hadow as Bitsy was completely immersed in her part, and gave a most convincing interpretation of the character. The two nuns were played by Gertrude Partridge and Elsie Finlayson, and the part of the clown fell to Harold Lawson Gelling, all of whom played adequately.

"The Prodigal and the Trump" was unquestionably the finer of the two one-act plays entered by W. O. Blackman, and in the opinion of some of the audience, was a close rival of the winning play. It is the story of an eccentric will and its effect on the author's son and the author's secretary, who, in order to benefit from the estate, must marry. As the son, Roy Shadbolt created an outstanding character. Erma Helene Falk played the part of Miss Drummond, the secretary, with nice reserve, and Alan King was very natural and convincing as the lawyer, Mr. Russell.

"NOCTURNE"

As played, the most effective character in "Nocturne," the other play by Mr. Blackman, was Kippis, the coffee stall proprietor. Chris Frere made this delightful Cockney part live, and in the opening scene of the little drama had such animation and spirit that the second part seemed rather an anticlimax. The play was over-looked by the audience, but the other characters were played by Alan King, as the old actor, Rupert Sandry as the newspaperman, Phyllis Preston as the friend of Sonia, and Hugh Allan as the theatre manager. The lighting of the stage was admirably handled, Roy Shadbolt being in charge.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDATURE FOR CITY COUNCIL—IS NINTH ALDERMANIC ASPIRANT

The number of candidates for aldermanic honors was increased to nine, yesterday, with the announcement of Arthur Hinder, of 59 Moss Street, as an aspirant for one of the five vacancies.

This will be the third occasion on which Mr. Hinder has sought civic office, and in doing so he will again champion the cause of city management, he stated.

FAVORS CITY MANAGER

"I am strongly in favor of a city manager along the lines advocated by John Dean, as I feel it will bring about more efficient administration, and a better continuation of policies directed to improve conditions in Victoria," Mr. Hinder said.

He also declared he was opposed to the cutting of small wages. "A person getting less than $150 has all he can do to get by on such a salary, without having it reduced still further."

Mr. Hinder is secretary of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association, and has been a member of the executive for the last four years.

OTHER CANDIDATES

Those now in the aldermanic contest are: Aldermen Dr. J. D. Hunter, Andrew McClellan and Walter Loney, Edward Williams, Mrs. Alice McGregor, F. J. Crowhurst, Walter Inward, Ernest E. Bragg and Mr. Hinder.

In all there are fifteen candidates in the field. For a two-year term on the school board, there are four seeking the three vacancies. They are Trustees W. G. Moresby, K. G. and P. E. George, Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, and Alexander Marshall.

For the single one-year term, there is one candidate, Kenneth F. Ferguson. Mayor David Leeming is the only candidate, thus far, for chief magistrate.

enough momentum to leave the ground, and this might be softened by authorities.

Authorities have stated that the hard, long and smooth-surfaced beach on the West Coast, at low tide, would be admirable for Captain Ulm's purpose, and it is now believed that he will take off from that point.

MAKES MANY TESTS

The Australian flyer, who flew the Pacific to Australia, from California, with Kingsford-Smith in 1928, made exhaustive tests on his plane, Star of Australia, at Montreal, on Thursday.

The captain's plane is fully equipped for the trans-Pacific flight with a waterproof-encased radio, which he hopes will help searchers in finding him should he be forced down over the ocean. While the plane seems to be silver when seen from the ground, the top is colored black and orange to make it more easily distinguishable against the drabness of the water.

Ulm's airspeed envoy, powered with two British-made Lynx engines of 240 horsepower each, has a cruising range of 3,588 miles at about 138 to 140 miles per hour. Top speed is 179 miles per hour, and gasoline consumption 22 gallons per hour. Ulm expects to carry enough fuel for twenty-eight hours in the air.

OFFERS SERVICES

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23 (CP).—Ald. M. Richardson, Vancouver aviator, has offered the services of himself and his six-passenger flying boat to Captain Charles Ulm, if the Australian flyer wishes to look over Long Beach on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, as a possible take-off place on his projected Canada to Australia flight.

It was stated by aviation officials here that the fact that gasoline had been ordered shipped to Long Beach did not necessarily mean that Captain Ulm would take-off from there. It might be, rather, a precautionary measure in case the Australian flyer did decide to start his flight from the Island beach.

IN DOMINION HOUSE

In the House of Commons at Ottawa, Mr. Gallihier was particularly active in the debates on Asiatic immigration which was, at that time, causing considerable apprehension on the Pacific Coast. He also served on a number of Parliamentary committees and was always considered a vigorous debater, both in the House and in committee. Although an Easterner by birth, he proved a staunch supporter of Western ideas and ideals.

On the British Columbia Bench, the late Mr. Gallihier was highly respected by his fellow members and members of the Bar. He had a keen sense of his duty and contributed much to the judicial record of the court. His retirement in 1933 brought genuine expressions of regret from Bench and Bar.

ACTIVE IN ATHLETICS

Besides an adventurer in his earlier days, Mr. Gallihier was an athlete of no small ability. He played lacrosse for the Bar and was active in athletic meets in the West. After coming to British Columbia, he became an ardent golfer and at one time he was a member of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association,

ARTHUR HINDER SEEKS OFFICE

Announces Candidature for City Council—Is Ninth Aldermanic Aspirant

The number of candidates for aldermanic honors was increased to nine, yesterday, with the announcement of Arthur Hinder, of 59 Moss Street, as an aspirant for one of the five vacancies.

FAVORS CITY MANAGER

"I am strongly in favor of a city manager along the lines advocated by John Dean, as I feel it will bring about more efficient administration, and a better continuation of policies directed to improve conditions in Victoria," Mr. Hinder said.

He also declared he was opposed to the cutting of small wages. "A person getting less than $150 has all he can do to get by on such a salary, without having it reduced still further."

Mr. Hinder is secretary of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association, and has been a member of the executive for the last four years.

OTHER CANDIDATES

Those now in the aldermanic contest are: Aldermen Dr. J. D. Hunter, Andrew McClellan and Walter Loney, Edward Williams, Mrs. Alice McGregor, F. J. Crowhurst, Walter Inward, Ernest E. Bragg and Mr. Hinder.

In all there are fifteen candidates in the field. For a two-year term on the school board, there are four seeking the three vacancies. They are Trustees W. G. Moresby, K. G. and P. E. George, Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, and Alexander Marshall.

For the single one-year term, there is one candidate, Kenneth F. Ferguson. Mayor David Leeming is the only candidate, thus far, for chief magistrate.

enough momentum to leave the ground, and this might be softened by authorities.

Authorities have stated that the hard, long and smooth-surfaced beach on the West Coast, at low tide, would be admirable for Captain Ulm's purpose, and it is now believed that he will take off from that point.

MAKES MANY TESTS

The Australian flyer, who flew the Pacific to Australia, from California, with Kingsford-Smith in 1928, made exhaustive tests on his plane, Star of Australia, at Montreal, on Thursday.

The captain's plane is fully equipped for the trans-Pacific flight with a waterproof-encased radio, which he hopes will help searchers in finding him should he be forced down over the ocean. While the plane seems to be silver when seen from the ground, the top is colored black and orange to make it more easily distinguishable against the drabness of the water.

Ulm's airspeed envoy, powered with two British-made Lynx engines of 240 horsepower each, has a cruising range of 3,588 miles at about 138 to 140 miles per hour. Top speed is 179 miles per hour, and gasoline consumption 22 gallons per hour. Ulm expects to carry enough fuel for twenty-eight hours in the air.

OFFERS SERVICES

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23 (CP).—Ald. M. Richardson, Vancouver aviator, has offered the services of himself and his six-passenger flying boat to Captain Charles Ulm, if the Australian flyer wishes to look over Long Beach on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, as a possible take-off place on his projected Canada to Australia flight.

It was stated by aviation officials here that the fact that gasoline had been ordered shipped to Long Beach did not necessarily mean that Captain Ulm would take-off from there. It might be, rather, a precautionary measure in case the Australian flyer did decide to start his flight from the Island beach.

DEATH TAKES NOTED JUDGE

on the Bench for almost a year previous to his retirement.

IN DOMINION HOUSE

In the House of Commons at Ottawa, Mr. Gallihier was particularly active in the debates on Asiatic immigration which was, at that time, causing considerable apprehension on the Pacific Coast. He also served on a number of Parliamentary committees and was always considered a vigorous debater, both in the House and in committee. Although an Easterner by birth, he proved a staunch supporter of Western ideas and ideals.

On the British Columbia Bench, the late Mr. Gallihier was highly respected by his fellow members and members of the Bar. He had a keen sense of his duty and contributed much to the judicial record of the court. His retirement in 1933 brought genuine expressions of regret from Bench and Bar.

ACTIVE IN ATHLETICS

Besides an adventurer in his earlier days, Mr. Gallihier was an athlete of no small ability. He played lacrosse for the Bar and was active in athletic meets in the West. After coming to British Columbia, he became an ardent golfer and at one time he was a member of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association, which was organized about ten years ago.

Since his retirement from his official duties on the Bench, Mr. Gallihier had been, more or less, confined to his home, although he enjoyed an occasional motor drive with friends. His death, however, was not unexpected by the members of his family and his intimate friends.

Mr. Gallihier is survived by his widow, Louise Margaret (Brown), to whom he was married in Toronto; three daughters, Mrs. Hugh Peters, Esquimalt; Mrs. Edward Williams, Oak Bay, and Margaret, at the family home, 914 St. Charles Street. One son, Frank, was killed overseas while serving with the Canadian Scottish at Festubert. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TRIBUTES PAID

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23 (CP).—Members of the British Columbia Court of Appeal today paid tribute to the late Hon. W. A. Gallihier.

Mr. Gallihier, who died in Victoria today, after suffering from ill health for the past two years, had been a member of the Court of Appeal from 1909 until his retirement last year.

"I have just been informed of the death of Mr. Justice Gallihier," Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald said as the court was preparing to adjourn for the day. "He was highly thought of by the Bench and Bar of British Columbia. I regret very much the death of Mr. Justice Gallihier, who was always a friend of mine and other members of the Bench. It was a great loss to the province when he resigned from the Bench."

LONG FRIENDSHIP

Mr. Justice Archer Martin expressed his regret, and recalled a friendship with the late jurist extending more than fifty years.

Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips remarked that he, too, was an old friend of Mr. Gallihier and knew him when he went to the relief of Kharatoum with a Canadian voyageur expedition in the column led by Lord Wolseley.

"He made a long and valuable contribution to the judicial life of the province," Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald said. "In the sphere of personal relations, he was a most engaging personality."

IN HIGHEST RESPECT

Mr. Justice W. G. McQuarrie stated that Mr. Gallihier had always been held in the highest respect by the Bar.

Alfred Bull, K.C., of Vancouver, and H. V. Craig, of Kelowna, expressed their regret on behalf of the Bar Association of British Columbia.

Men's Fraternity In First Concert

The Young Men's Fraternity of the First Baptist Church held a very successful concert, last evening, in the schoolroom of the church. The concert was opened by a few remarks by Rev. G. A. Reynolds, who expressed his appreciation for such a large turnout. This being the first concert put on by the Young Men's Fraternity, it was very gratifying to the young men themselves for such a successful evening. Those taking part besides the Young Men's Fraternity, were: A. Jackman, J. Dismore, G. Green and H. Goddell. Mr. Oliver Stout presided at the piano. The Boys' Fraternity was under the direction of Fred Carter. It is the aim of the fraternity to bring joy to the shut-ins in the near future. Any young man wishing to join this fraternity would be welcome at any of the meetings and socials which are held on the second and fourth Friday of each month, at the First Baptist schoolroom, at 8 o'clock.

STIFF HOOKED SPINES

"A number of stiff spines, four to six inches long, with fishhook-like ends, were found lying loose on the beach beneath the neck portions of the body. The hooks were apparently imbedded in the skin when the creature was alive."

There was no bony structure corresponding to ribs, but a dozen cartilage strips were found on each flipper. Most of the flesh was too badly decomposed to determine the shape or decide the diameter of the body.

"Considerable quantity of undecomposed red flesh under the backbone was similar to beef in appearance and was strongly suggestive of a warm-blooded mammal. The odor was similar to that of a whaling station and not of decomposed fish."

ALL STIRRED UP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP).—Sea serpents had scientists on both sides of the continent all stirred up today. In Prince Rupert, B.C., a huge creature found dead on the rocky coast near there aroused speculation as to whether it was a real sea monster.

In Washington, the Smithsonian Institution pointed to a newly-found bone to prove that sea serpents existed 60,000,000 years ago. The bone, a single vertebra of the largest fossil snake ever discovered in North America, was found by Dr. W. Gardner Lynn, of Johns Hopkins University, on Belvedere Beach, Virginia. It originally was buried in sea-bottom deposits of Eocene times, and was preserved to this day.

Even with only a single bone to judge by, it is plain that this sea serpent was a monster, says Dr. C. W. Gilmore, expert on extinct animals. It was at least twenty-five feet long and had a thick body. It is believed to have been distantly related to the modern python family. Scientists have named it "palaeophis virginianus."

Of the decomposing body of the British Columbia "sea serpent," Dr. Trevor Kincaid, head of the University of Washington zoology department, expressed the opinion that the creature was something previously unknown in animal life.

"If it was thirty feet long," he said, "it wasn't a sea lion or a wal-

TOURIST TRADE ONLY SOLUTION

Mayor Leeming Tells Credit Granters of Campaign to "Sell" Victoria

"The only way out for Victoria is the creation here of a tourist industry that cannot be taken from us by economic or any other pressure," declared Mayor David Leeming, in an address on "The Financial Situation and the Way Out" to members of the Victoria Credit Granters' Association, yesterday, in the Douglas Cafe.

Mayor Leeming told of the formation of a tourist publicity campaign in Victoria, and he believed that in five years it would bring more than one million tourists annually to this city. This, he felt, was only a small number in comparison with the possibilities that existed along these lines.

ADDITIONAL BURDENS

His Worship criticized the Provincial Government for foisting certain charges on municipalities which at this time they could ill afford to handle. "They are forcing these things on us by one, and the first thing we know they'll shoot the whole works on us," declared Mayor Leeming.

"These charges, too, are coming at a time when the taxpayers are overburdened," continued the Mayor. In speaking of the financial situation of Victoria, His Worship stated that although it was somewhat black, it was very favorable, in fact good in comparison with leading cities of the West.

SINKING FUND CLEAR

"Certain purchases made this year have enabled us to overcome the $240,000 which we did not place in the sinking fund when compiling the 1934 budget," continued Mayor Leeming. He dealt with unemployment relief figures at some length, and refuted statements that this contingency was improving.

"What we need in Victoria to completely stabilize our financial situation, is an industry that cannot be taken from us. And that is the tourist industry," stated the speaker.

"On the Pacific Coast, we have 12,000,000 persons on which to work without even going east of the Rockies," declared the Mayor.

GOOD SPENDERS

"And these people are the highest powered buyers and money spenders you will find anywhere in the world," Mayor Leeming remarked.

"However, to make this publicity scheme a success, we must have the entire support of the citizens. We must forget that holidays are holidays for us. We must sell them to outsiders. When they come to spend their money, we must make them stay twice as long as they originally intended," Mayor Leeming averred.

If this were carried out, he felt, Victoria would become one of the leading tourist centres of the world.

processes as in whale vertebrae.

"One cartilaginous-like limb was attached five feet behind the head and another fifteen feet behind, with evidence of corresponding flippers on the other side of the body."

"It was so badly decomposed that it is difficult to reconstruct the living appearance. The skin is brownish green, like coarse sandpaper, and covered with bristles eight to ten inches long on the tail, ends of the flippers and other portions of the body."

Story of Notable Family Recounted By Hon. S. F. Tolmie

Former Premier Delights Large Audience at B.C. Historical Society Meeting With Outline of Part Played by Grandfather and Father in Past

RESPONDING to an invitation of the programme committee of the British Columbia Historical Society, Hon. S. F. Tolmie, last night, addressed an audience that taxed the accommodation of the big auditorium of the Archives Department in the Provincial Buildings, on the history of his family in the Northwest. The magnificent parts played by his grandfather, Hon. John Work, and his father, Dr. William Fraser Tolmie, in establishing civilization was most interestingly pictured, while the address was enlivened by flashes of wit and whimsical comment for which the former Premier is noted.

The story of the Tolmie family is not only unique in Western history, but it is one of public service that covers the entire period from the first establishment of permanent communities on the Coast of British Columbia to the present day.

sovereignty north of the forty-ninth parallel, when the boundary was decided upon in 1846.

Dr. Tolmie gave intimate glimpses of "Grandfather Work," who was a man of indefatigable energy, rugged personality and possessed of a high sense of integrity and a kindly disposition.

READY SYMPATHY
His own father, the doctor said, was of more stern nature and a strict disciplinarian. He recalled how when his brothers, for some childish prank would merit the rebuke of Dr. Tolmie, they would go to "Grandfather Work," who would comfort them, "with pats on the head and candy."

John Work entered the service of the fur trade in 1814, and continued in it until his death in Victoria in 1861. During that period of nearly half a century he was, for the major part, stationed west of the Rockies. He rose to be one of the chief officials of the company, and a member of the Legislative Council of Vancouver's Island.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie was somewhat abashed, he confided to the audience, when asked to speak about his own family. He would have preferred to have spoken of others, but the society being insistent, he had accepted the assignment. That he did so with a real appreciation of the purpose of the society in obtaining unbiased opinions and facts, was evident from the character of the address. The speaker treated his subject impersonally. This was particularly noticeable in reference to the part played by his father, Dr. William Fraser Tolmie.

CLIMBED RAINIER
Dr. William Fraser Tolmie came to the Pacific Coast in 1833, fresh from medical school. He was a man who believed in hard work and the conservation of time, and the speaker illustrated these qualities by amusing anecdotes of his own boyhood.

Quoting Professor Edmund Meany, the great historian of the State of Washington, the doctor told of how his father was the first man to climb the slopes of Mount Rainier; of the manner in which he discovered living glaciers there—a feat that was claimed by another twenty-four years later; of how he had discovered on the wooded slopes of the mountain a number of medicinal plants that are distinguished by his name, and of the honor recently done to his memory by the authorities of United States in naming a mountain peak in his honor.

He told of how the young doctor trader had helped in the establishment of Fort McLaughlin, and of his taking part in the famous expedition by Peter Skene Ogden, to build a fort on the Skeine River, and of the manner in which the Russians had frustrated the attempt; of a notable journey made by the doctor across the continent in 1841, and of his visit to France to take post-graduate work in medicine.

MANAGED FARMS
On his return to the Pacific Coast, the young doctor was placed in charge of Fort Nisqually, where he had charge of the farming operations of the Puget Sound Agricultural Association. Here he raised vast crops of grain; superintended 8,000 cattle; 3,000 sheep and produced quantities of butter.

It was while he was at Fort McLaughlin that Dr. Tolmie heard of the interest shown by Indians in the coal used by the blacksmith, and learned from them that there were outcroppings on Vancouver Island. These were investigated and led to the first coal mining on the Coast.

When the Hudson's Bay Company and the Puget Sound Company interests were turned over to United States, the speaker said, his father came to Victoria, in 1859, and took up 1,100 acres for himself, as well as superintending the Puget Sound and Hudson's Bay farms in the neighborhood.

BROUGHT DAHLIAS
It was Doctor William Fraser Tolmie who introduced dahlias and the acacia tree to the Northwest. His interest in botany is recalled, the speaker said, by numerous plants which bear his name.

He was a member of the Legislative assemblies of both the territory of Washington and later of Vancouver Island, and at a still later date, following Confederation, of the Province of British Columbia. The speaker instanced many of the measures fathered by his father in colonial days, and stressed the part that he had played in laying the foundations of the present educational system.

HEAVIER TAXATION IS NOT SOLUTION

In some instances that he cannot be paid; that sinking funds which were agreed to be set aside will not be kept up, and that he must bear the costs that cannot be borne by land. That merely means the ruination of the bondholder as well. Ruining the bondholder will not serve any purpose, nor settle any problem, Mr. Anscomb declared.

Economy in public expenditures was implicit in his whole address, coupled with endorsement of the view of the Harper report that there must be a redivision of revenues and duties as between the Province and the municipalities, with additional aid for the municipalities meanwhile.

PRAISES CITY
Mr. Anscomb spoke on the experiences of the Harper Commission, of which he had been a member up until the time he resigned to stand for the Legislature. He rehearsed the evidence laid before that body, and some of the forty-two recommendations made at the close of the inquiry. He praised Mayor David Leeming for the presentation of a lucid and concise brief for Victoria. City, and also the concurrence generally with the findings of the commission's report.

The commission, he continued, held meetings in some eight leading centres of the province, and encountered strong resentment against the action of the former ministry in leading social service charges onto the cities and in withdrawing regular grants. The commission had recommended restoration of the grants to the 1929 basis and removal of the additional social service costs, not properly chargeable to land.

NEED OF ADJUSTMENT

While responsibility for a good deal of the trouble in municipalities rested with those who had been in charge of civic areas in the past, there still remained the need of fairer adjustment as between Provincial and municipal revenue sources and responsibilities, the speaker continued. Centres that had got into the greatest difficulty included those who made but tardy application of the improvement levy, who suffered from governmental tax exemptions, and in a few cases, from indulging in the bonusing of industries.

The commission's recommendation was that improvements be assessed up to half of their value without exemption, and up to 75 per cent, permissively. Duncan alone used the full authority already in the act, with Victoria next, assessing up to 60 per cent of improvements.

The commission had wrestled with a definition of "actual value" for assessments, and held this equity to be as in the basis of a normal transfer between a solvent debtor and a willing creditor. To curb fluctuation of assessment it was suggested that increases or decreases be limited to 8 per cent of the total in any one year.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

Dealing with other points, Mr. Anscomb said the practice of charging municipalities with the upkeep of prisoners led to evasion of law enforcement, wherein cities imposed fines rather than jail terms. Law enforcement should be a Provincial responsibility.

The right of the Crown had been used unfairly against municipalities to create an ever-growing list of taxation exemptions, burdensome in many centres. The Provincial suggestion that statute taxes be used to enable owners to work out taxes was not practical and would merely mean non-collection of rates.

Hospitalization, sanitaria, mental hospitals and such services should be Provincial obligations, with state health insurance, in some form, advisable. Unemployment insurance, the commission felt, should be national in scope. Municipalities should have part of the proceeds of gasoline and motor vehicle taxation, the commission had argued.

ASSISTANCE NOW

Finally, the Harper report had proposed that municipalities be given some immediate assistance by the Province, pending the carrying out of all or any of the forty-two recommendations it had made, Mr. Anscomb concluded.

James Forman expressed the thanks of the Real Estate Exchange to the speaker.

Hubert Lethaby, twenty-three years secretary of the group, was presented by Mr. Anscomb with a handsome case of tobacco.

The meeting was called by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, acting as a medium for the Vancouver Board of Trade, which becomes the clearing house for British Columbia nominations. W. T. Straith presided until H. H. Shandley was appointed chairman by the shareholders.

SUGGESTED DIVISION

The selection of Mr. Woodward as the nominee for British Columbia does not necessarily mean that he will be included on the board of seven directors. It has been suggested only that one director be named from this province, one from the Prairie Province, two from Ontario, two from Quebec, and one from the Maritimes, but the final selection rests with the shareholders of the Dominion as a whole. It might so happen that the weight of the voting of Ontario and Quebec would be thrown towards nominees to the exclusion of all others. That is the obstacle in the way of final selection of zone representation, it was explained.

NAME CORRECTED

The secretary of the Victoria centre of the Royal Astronomical Society announces that through a typographical error the name "Duncan" was printed on the ballot paper in the list of candidates for the council instead of "Deacon." All members are kindly asked to take notice accordingly.

DEATH HELD TO BE ACCIDENTAL

Coroner's Jury Takes Long Time to Reach Verdict at Inquest Here

After deliberating for nearly an hour and a quarter on the evidence concerning the death of Mrs. Ellen Parfitt, wife of James Parfitt, well-known citizen of this city, a coroner's jury, yesterday, reached a verdict that the cause of death was accidental.

After having been out for nearly an hour, the jury informed the coroner, Dr. E. C. Harris, that it had failed to reach a verdict. The coroner said that if it were absolutely impossible to reach a decision, he could only bind them over until the next sitting of the assize court, when the matter could be dealt with by the presiding judge.

REACHED VERDICT

Some time later the six men composing the jury brought in a unanimous verdict of accidental death. The main part of the evidence was heard at McCall's Funeral Home, after which the court adjourned to the Jubilee Hospital, where the testimony was taken of Leonard Harris, who was driving a car, on September 8, when the accident occurred, at the corner of Shelbourne Street and Pelham Road. James Parfitt was driving the other automobile involved.

The evidence of Mr. Harris, whose leg was fractured in the accident, was to the effect that he drove his automobile down Pelham Road and did not see the Parfitt car until after he had started across Shelbourne Street.

SAW ACCIDENT

Thomas Branson, who was riding a motorcycle, following the automobile driven by Mr. Harris, along Pelham Road, before the accident, testified to having seen the collision.

To D. S. Tait, representing Mr. Parfitt, witness said he could see the Parfitt car coming north on Shelbourne Street before he came to the crossing. It faded from view and came in sight later. At the time, witness stated, he was giving attention to the Parfitt machine and did not pay much attention to the Harris car, in front of him. When the accident occurred, witness said, he was about half way down a hill and saw the cars collide.

Witness testified that he had stopped his motorcycle before reaching the intersection. When he first saw the Parfitt car, it was as far back on the road as one could see from Pelham. It was, he thought, just about opposite a barn that stood on the side. He could not recall very clearly what occurred as the cars came together. Following the crash, both cars were turned over and near the Kennedy house.

JAMES PARFITT TESTIFIES

James Parfitt said that his machine was in good shape. He had driven a car for twenty years. The accident occurred about 3 o'clock in the

A SLIP AND A SQUEEZE

The defence can quite frequently get out of a squeeze play by the simple procedure of removing early in the hand, potential squeezing cards from the declarer's or dummy's hand. For instance, if you play a high card, even though you know the declarer is going to ruff the trick, you may at the same time be removing from the dummy a low card which subsequently could cause you much difficulty. It was the failure of East to make this play that enabled Mr. Walter Malowan on the hand below to fulfill a four-spade contract by obtaining a squeeze which gave him a perfect count on the hand.

East, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Pass	1♠	2♠	Pass

West, on lead against the four-spade contract, decided to open a trump, not knowing that the dummy had no ruffing power anyway. The trump trick was won by South in his own hand and a club was now led. Although Mr. Malowan realized that his contract was surely home if the heart finesse worked, he decided not to take anything for granted, but to play for every possibility. Admittedly, from the bidding East should have the heart queen, but it would do no harm to first do a little checking. The club lead was won by East's ten-spot, and now East, by immediately shifting to diamonds and making it possible for three rounds of the suit to be played, could have removed the diamond ten, a possible squeezing card, from the dummy. However, East decided to continue with clubs. On the second lead of clubs Mr. Malowan discarded one of his two losing diamonds, thus making sure that three diamond leads could not be made.

East now did shift to the diamond ace, and after being signalled by his partner, continued the afternoon. The road was dry and visibility good.

The road was one which he was in the habit of traveling frequently, as his family had a Summer home which was reached by this route. As he arrived at the intersection of the two roads, he saw the Harris car. It appeared to him that it was stopping as it came onto Shelbourne. Then he saw that it was coming on, and he thought it might be turning to the right. He swung over in order to avoid a collision, when, he said, the Harris machine struck his car on the side. Witness testified that he was going at a speed of between thirty and thirty-five miles an hour.

MODERATE SPEED

Hazel Parfitt, a daughter of James Parfitt, who was in the right rear seat of the car, did not see the Harris car until just before the accident. She had no definite recollection of what had taken place. She stated her father's car was proceeding at a moderate speed.

The coroner pointed out that there was not much evidence to be considered. He warned the jurors that they had nothing whatever to do with anything but that concerning the inquest and the evidence produced. Their duty was to decide how Mrs. Parfitt had come to her death, and unless there was gross carelessness shown, their duty was to bring in a verdict of accidental death.

The jury was composed of Everett Taylor (foreman), Robert Love, Reginald Burton, John H. McConnell, James Stewart Skillings and Carbery Collins.

DIVERGENCY MAY BE RECONCILED

by unilateral denunciation of the treaty. They were optimistic now of a change in Japan's attitude.

MANY FACTORS

Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, has recently explained publicly that equal security for the naval powers does not imply parity in naval armaments. There are many factors entering into national security, chiefly the question of wide responsibilities, making it obvious that security for the British Empire, for one, is not the same thing in terms of fleets as for Japan.

The British and Americans had another meeting today, at which it was decided that the delegates must continue to explore the problems, and agreed there was no reason at this time to abandon hope of an agreement. The delegates were opposed to granting the Japanese demands as they stand and resolved to attack the problem separately again at its centre—just why the Japanese want parity.

MUCH TOO STRONG

Talk of the British and Americans presenting a stiff front to the Japanese, was authoritatively explained, is much too strong an interpretation of the British desire, should the Washington ratios eventually be abandoned, to salvage parts of that treaty.

FRIENDLY CO-OPERATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP).—In a statement considered of the highest significance in view of the London naval deadlock, Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, today forecast close, active and friendly co-operation between the United States and Great Britain.

After praising Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, for his House of Commons speech on armaments, Mr. Hull emphasized friendly Anglo-American relations by paying tribute to the fair and co-operative attitude which has been shown by the British delegates.

Sir John had declared a breakdown in the system of naval limitation would be "a great disaster," since it would result in a renewed armaments race with serious political and financial repercussions.

"One of the bright spots of the negotiations," Mr. Hull declared, "has been the close and friendly re-burg stated."

South now led out his last trump and West, being forced to keep a diamond, had to lead South in completing his count by discarding the club ace. The diamond ten was discarded from dummy and East, being forced to keep a high club, had to drop one of his hearts. A low heart was led to the king and a low heart returned. East perforce playing the ten. Whereas at the beginning of the hand it seemed as though the East player was marked with the heart queen, Mr. Malowan now knew differently. He knew that East's remaining card was the high club because of the squeeze which had resulted from the play of the last trump, and he accordingly knew that the heart queen must now be blank in the West hand. So he went up with the ace, dropping the queen, and won the last trick with the jack, thus fulfilling his doubled contract.

Had the defence earlier in the play played three rounds of diamonds, Mr. Malowan could still have guessed the hand correctly, but he would not have been certain. West would have been able to throw all his diamonds and keep the club suit covered as well as his two hearts, and South would never have been able to know surely whether East, who would have held on to three hearts, had the queen.

GOOD WILL LODGES BEING SUPPORTED

David Blumberg, High Official in B'nai Brith Order, Visiting Victoria

Everywhere the B'nai Brith Order is receiving good support, and the membership in its various lodges is increasing rapidly, according to David Blumberg, Los Angeles, grand president of the Northwest and Pacific Coast district. In an interview at the Empress Hotel last night.

Mr. Blumberg addressed the local lodge of the order during the evening. The grand president is now on a tour of inspection of the various lodges. He visited Vancouver and will leave this city for Seattle, this afternoon.

Members throughout his entire district are fired with enthusiasm to further the order's ideal of spreading "good will on earth," Mr. Blumberg stated.

"Dorothy—do stop whining! Awfully sorry, Edith—she's usually so well-behaved. But she's been cross all week."

"Don't scold her, Helen. She wasn't hungry. When my children act this way I've often found they need a laxative. Try Castoria tonight."

"See my happy little girl today, Edith! And she ate the finest lunch you ever saw! Thanks for suggesting Castoria—it's wonderful!"

"Thousands of mothers think so too, Helen. You see, Castoria is made especially for children. You'll find it splendid for stubborn cases of sour stomach. Often laxatives made for grown-ups are so strong that they are actually upsetting—but Castoria is mild and SAFE. It tastes good, too."

Lumber Exports in Ten Months Gained In Marked Degree

Great Britain Increased B.C. Purchases by 85 Per Cent—Orient Turns to Log Importation, With Use of Own Manufacturing

BRITISH Columbia waterborne lumber exports for ten months this year increased 43 per cent over the corresponding figures last year, lumber inspection reports showed this week. Gross shipments, including logs and bolts, were in excess of 767,799,415 board feet, compared with 535,412,940 board feet in ten months last year. The United Kingdom took 375,744,962 board feet, increasing its purchases by 85 per cent in the same period.

The two chief movements observable during the period were the heavy increase in United Kingdom purchases, and the definite swing in place of manufactured lumber, the latter trend affecting the Pacific Northwest as a whole. Japan especially has turned to milling from imported logs, China, to a lesser extent, following suit.

WATERBORNE TRADE
Between January and October, inclusive, the United Kingdom took 375,744,962 board feet; Australia 107,000,000 board feet; China 94,300,000

SAYS EMPRESS CAN GIVE CLUE

Hollywood Explorer Comments on Discovery of Bodies on Island

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22 (AP).—The strange disappearance of the "Empress" of Charles Island concerned explorers here today on the eve of their departure for the equatorial paradise to seek, among other things, a solution of the tragedy of the Galapagos Islands.
"Find the Baroness Elise Bonaparte de Wagner and you will find the story that will meet your deepest zest for a tale of adventure," said W. Charles Sweet, Hollywood navigator-explorer, acquaintance of the Viennese noblewoman who vanished months ago from her primitive "empire" in the tropical isles.

Sweet made it clear, however, that he did not believe the baroness had any direct knowledge of the deaths of the two men whose bodies were found last Saturday on Marchena Rock, 160 miles from Charles Island. One of the three-wrecked bodies has been tentatively identified as that of Alfred Rudolph Lorenz, of Paris, a companion of the baroness. The other is believed to be a sailor who occasionally visited the queer Eden of self-imposed exiles.

"Where have you been for the last four years?"
"At college, taking medicine."
"And did you finally get well?"

At the Theatres

CAPITOL SCREENS DUMAS' CLASSIC

"Count of Monte Cristo." Presents Young English Actor in Leading Role—Fine Plot

In preparation for nearly a year before a single scene was filmed, the million dollar production of "The Count of Monte Cristo," which will begin a six-day showing at the Capitol Theatre today, is hailed as one of the few really big "specials" to come out of Hollywood since the advent of talking pictures, and a forceful answer to the public demand for entertainment of world-wide appeal, for all ages and all tastes.

This lavish filmization of Alexandre Dumas' immortal classic is the most ambitious of the screen achievements to date of Reliance Pictures, Inc., the Harry M. Goetz-Edward Small producing organization, releasing through United Artists, which made "I Cover the Waterfront" and "Palooka," the Jimmie Durante laugh riot.

Months of research work by a staff of technical experts, unburied scenario preparation by three ace writers—Philip Dunne, Dan Thero and Rowland V. Lee—and the year's biggest set-construction programme and wardrobe assembling preceded actual production.

Search for the ideal personality to play the character of Edmond Dantes, familiar to countless readers of the story in every civilized country, finally resulted in the choice of Robert Donat, handsome young English screen and stage star, whom American audiences saw as the dashing Thomas Culpeper in "The Private Life of Henry VIII."

PLAYHOUSE Spencer Tracy and Madge Evans, a new co-starring team of favorites, are currently featured at the Playhouse Theatre in "The Show-Off," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of George Kelly's famous stage play. It is the first time Tracy and Miss Evans have appeared together on the screen, although they once appeared in the same play on the New York stage.

DOMINION Lovers of the fine theatre songs of Schubert will be interested to learn that Richard Tauber, noted Viennese tenor, whose singing has been the subject of considerable critical argument in London, appears in the delightful new British picture, "Thine Is My Heart," now at the Dominion Theatre.

COLUMBIA Margaret Sullivan and Douglas Montgomery are now appearing on the screen of the Columbia Theatre in the modern drama, "Little Man, What Now?"

AMUSEMENTS
On the Stage
Empire—"Artists and Models."
Capitol—"The Count of Monte Cristo."
Columbia—"Douglas Montgomery in 'Little Man, What Now?'"
Dominion—"Thine Is My Heart," starring Richard Tauber.
Playhouse—"Spencer Tracy in 'The Show-Off.'"

Randolph Scott is seen in the added feature, "To the Last Man," another Zane Grey thriller.

EMPIRE REVUE IS ACCLAIMED HERE
"Artists and Models" Stage Show Is Well-Balanced Presentation—Dancers Featured

A show built around three or four eccentric dancers proved, to the liking of Victoria theatregoers, as large houses, yesterday, greeted the "Artists and Models Revue" at the Empire Theatre.

Sustained action impressed the audiences yesterday, and this feature alone is worthy of note in commenting on a well-rounded out vaudeville presentation.

Without a doubt, the lightning-like dancing of Sanna and Loomis, the last act on the bill, was the feature offering of the show. These two boys, in their act entitled "Monkey Shines," truly lived up to the name, even to swinging Tarzan fashion, over the stage and above the heads of the audience. Pantomimic comedy was not lacking, either, in this turn.

BLONDE DANCER
Geraldine Ross, a tall blonde, delighted with her acrobatic dance routines. Miss Ross gave her interpretation of "Poetry in Motion," which was liberally applauded.

No road show, of course, is complete without comedians. Margaret Lilly and George Hall, stars of the "Weaver Bros." revues, literally laughed their way into the hearts of the audience.

Unusual arrangements of famous quartette songs are offered by the "1,000 Pounds of Harmony." In addition to singing together, this group rendered a specialty selection weaved around the story of "The Big, Bad Wolf."

Joe Marcan, as master of ceremonies, was also featured in the startling comedy blackouts, which are liberally sprinkled between the acts. The Monarch of Melody stage orchestra accompanied all the acts. The show will be presented today and again on Monday.

MIDNIGHT MATINEE TO BE STAGED AT EMPIRE
Leading stars of the revue, "Artists and Models," which is now at the Empire Theatre, have been selected to present the special midnight matinee tomorrow night. The doors will open at midnight and the curtain will go up at 12:05 a.m. Monday.

This show is guaranteed to be one of the smartest yet presented in Victoria at this novel hour. The programme will be entirely different from the one being regularly presented this week-end. It will contain some new humor and scores of new songs and dances. The programme will last about an hour and a half.

B.C. Government Grants $18,000 In Relief Loans

LOANS totaling $18,000 were authorized yesterday by the Province for three British Columbia municipalities, for relief purposes. New Westminster will borrow $12,000; Cranbrook, $5,000, and the Township of Esquimalt, $1,000. The money will be advanced under the Unemployment Relief Act of 1933, at 5 per cent, secured against municipal debentures ranging from four to ten years in maturities.

TRADE TREATIES IN THE MAKING

Announcement Expected Shortly of Agreements With Poland and France and Perhaps Italy

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP).—Trade treaty-making has figured large in external affairs in the past few weeks, and it is anticipated there will be announced shortly a completed treaty with Poland, a supplementary treaty with France adding to the mutual concessions negotiated by Premier R. B. Bennett on his recent journey abroad, and possibly a treaty with Italy.

The return to Ottawa today of the Canadian Minister to Washington, Hon. W. D. Herridge, was said to have no trade treaty significance. Mr. Herridge left only a short time ago after spending a fortnight in Ottawa, during which the whole basis for a possible reciprocal trade treaty with the United States was brought up to date.

Else: "My mummy got a nice present yesterday and she threw her arms around daddy's neck. What does your mummy do when she gets a nice present?"
Eddie: "She tells daddy she'll forgive him, but he mustn't stay out late again."

SELECT SITE FOR LOOKOUT

Glass-Enclosed Shelter Will Give Visitors Protection to View Strait

The longest of the two points that form the margin of Horseshoe Bay has been selected as the site for the proposed Kiwanis shelter and lookout. The parks committee, of which Alderman John Worthington is chairman, made a tour of the waterfront yesterday afternoon to select the site. They were accompanied by members of the Kiwanis Club.

The shelter will be twenty-three feet by twenty-two feet, and will be glass-enclosed on three sides. It will be located in such a manner that it will not be necessary to enclose the fourth side. By moving the seats about, one can secure protection from the wind. In this way there will be no obstruction to the views possible from this lookout.

Views to the east, west and south of the lookout will be possible, and on stormy days it will make an excellent shelter for persons to see the waves dashing upon the shoreline, while they themselves are protected from the elements.

The committee also visited the Burns Monument. Aldermen Andrew McGavin and James Adam, who are particularly interested in the matter, went with the committee.

It was decided to have the building inspected. Duncan Kennedy, submit a complete report on what is necessary to put this monument into a good state of repairs.

COMMITTEE ENDS 1934 ACTIVITIES

S.P.C.A. Group to Hold Annual General Meeting on Tuesday, November 27

There was a full attendance of the committee of the Victoria branch of the British Columbia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, at the monthly meeting, this being the last session of the committee before the annual general meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, November 27, at 8 p.m., in Room "A," Campbell Building.

The Toronto Humane Society has been authorized to purchase for $400, containing six reproductions of paintings of Canada's most beautiful native flowers, by Barrie Rennie. They appear in their natural colors. Beneath each picture is an authentic description, with botanical name, habitat, etc. Each page will contain the dates for two months and appropriate humane slogans. An order has been sent in by this branch of the S.P.C.A. for fifty calendars, which are expected shortly. After arrival, samples may be seen at the society's office, Room "A," Campbell Building, any day between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

During the month fifty cases were attended and 798 animals and birds inspected.

Cases of cruelty or neglect should be reported to the inspector, G. A. Allen, phone E8351, or to A. R. Sherwood, secretary-treasurer, telephone Empire 7556.

BILLS PROMPTLY PAID IN OCTOBER

National Credit Association Shows Volume of Buying Increases Over 1933

Bills were paid more promptly in October of this year than in 1933, and there was a larger volume of buying in October of this year, as compared with the corresponding month of 1933.

This is the finding of the National Retail Credit Association, according to Harry B. Dawson, secretary of the Victoria Credit Grantors' Association.

Retail collections for October showed an increase of 9 per cent and credit sales disclosed an increase of 11 per cent, the report showed.

Canadian figures as a whole showed an increase, the average being 5 per cent, which figure includes Victoria. Vancouver showed exceptional figures, increases being 25 per cent in collections and 12 per cent on credit sales.

Time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 12 hours from midnight to midnight. The figure for highest tide is distinguished by high water from low water. When blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height in feet and tenths of a foot measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the all of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the all of the Southern drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

OFFERS KEY TO DEATH MYSTERY
gether with the finding of baby clothes, convinced him beyond all doubt that Estampa was the victim. He knows all the inhabitants of the islands.
Estampa's friendship for Lorenz grew out of one of the sensational episodes during the early part of the Baroness as "empress" of Charles Island.
TO UNRAVEL MYSTERY
Ostrem's disclosures came just as the exploration cruiser Velerio III set sail for the Galapagos Islands with a crew which hoped to unravel the equatorial mystery.
The Northwestern skipper quoted Estampa as having told an amazing story of affairs on Charles Island, over a portion of which the Baroness, a former Parisienne, ruled as "empress."
Once Estampa was captured and held prisoner on the orders of the self-styled "empress," Ostrem said, but was freed three days later by Lorenz. Thereafter, Ostrem said, Estampa was so afraid of the Baroness and her companions that he did not return to the island until he learned that the Baroness had vanished from the old convict island of Charles.
RETURNED FOR VISIT
"Hearing of the departure of the Baroness reported last June," said Captain Ostrem, "Estampa returned to Charles Island for the first visit since his dramatic imprisonment. He went there for fresh meat. It was the only place he could get it."
"This would explain also the presence of the letters written by Margaret Whitmer, found beside the bodies on bleak Marchena."
When he got the letters he evidently also got the baby clothes for his wife, there being no infant clothes in the archipelago. He could get the letters into the mail sooner than from Charles Island.
"Lorenz went with him, either to remain in the Academy Bay settlement, or to await there a boat to take him back to the mainland."
"On the return trip to Santa Cruz Island, his home, Estampa evidently had engine trouble. Just off the point where the bodies were found there is a long reef jutting out to the southwest. The Falcon must have piled up on these rocks, and Lorenz and Estampa escaped in the small skiff found near the bodies."
LAST RITES TODAY
The funeral of the late Mrs. Esther Mary Morton will take place today, at 2 p.m., Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick conducting the service. Interment will be made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.
FUNERAL TODAY
Funeral services for the late John David White, Great War veteran, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Rev. J. B. Rowell will officiate, and the remains will be laid at rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

How to Make Better Cough Remedy Than You Can Buy
A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!
Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.
Then get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of truly wonderful cough remedy, far better than anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love its taste.
This is positively the most effective, quick-acting cough remedy that money could buy. Instantly, you feel it penetrating the air passages. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, and makes breathing easy. You've never seen its equal for prompt, lasting results.
Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to please you, or money refunded.

GIVES TALK ON KNOWN COMETS
Dr. Helen S. Hogg Pleases Victoria Astronomical Society With Address
The skyrocket of the heavens—the comets—formed the subject of an interesting and instructive address by Dr. Helen S. Hogg, of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain, before a large gathering of the Victoria Astronomical Society at the Y.W.C.A. last night.
Commencing with the early history of the observations of the comet, Dr. Hogg explained that as late as 360 years ago scientists did not know what a comet was. For many many decades after the comets were studied, people in many parts of the world regarded them as foreboding all evil and poets said of them: "They threaten war, famine and death."
HALLEY'S COMET
Although the earliest record of comets are to be found in Chinese writings of 610 B.C., it was not until 1066 that any attempt was made to reproduce a likeness of one on paper or in tapestries, the gathering was told.
The real conception of the comet came about the eighteenth century when a scientist, Halley, by extensive research, discovered certain principles which seemed to govern the heavenly bodies and, thus, he predicted in 1759 a certain bright comet, which had been observed in 1684, would appear again. Although Halley died before he could test his predictions, the comet reappeared and has since borne the name of Halley, the speaker continued.
Many of the comets which she named and described, Dr. Hogg showed on a lantern-slide screen. Dr. Hogg told the gathering that although there are only 100 periodic comets, accompanied by a great amount of brilliance, there are estimated to be approximately 125,000 comets in all.
Comets are made up of heads and long streaming tails, the speaker went on to explain. The heads are often millions of miles in diameter, while the tails reach a length of several million miles, she added. Although the volume of the matter comprising the comets is tremendous, the density is so little that the radiation pressure of the sun continually causes the tails to separate from the head, Dr. Hogg said.
COURSES OF COMETS
In contrast to the planets, which travel in perfect elliptical orbits, the comets follow somewhat elliptical courses, with one end pointed to the sun, the speaker stated. It is when these comets come close to the sun that they can be seen to lose their tails. With some bodies this occurs as often as every ten years, while in other cases the comets travel a course so great that it takes them thousands of years to complete one round, it was said.
Astronomers are continuing to study comets, for there are many problems regarding them which are still unsolved, Dr. Hogg said in closing.
James Duff, honorary president of the Victoria Astronomical Society, introduced the speaker and paid a high tribute to her work as an astronomer and astronomical photographer. He expressed the wish of the society that the speaker of the evening and her husband, Dr. Frank S. Hogg, would find happiness in Toronto, in which city they will soon establish their residence.
At the conclusion of the address, Robert Peters thanked Dr. Hogg on behalf of the members.

FOOD SCIENTIST TO LECTURE HERE
Dr. Stanford Kingsley Claunch to Open Health Series in Chamber of Commerce Sunday Night

Dr. Stanford Kingsley Claunch, internationally-known food scientist, psychologist and health educator, of San Francisco, will open a series of five public lectures in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium, 1119 Government Street, Sunday night, November 25, at 8 o'clock. These discussions will continue through and including Friday night, November 30.
The series will cover the general topic of "The Art of Living Intelligently," featuring health knowledge as the greatest educational need of the present day. Dr. Claunch says: "Knowledge is the greatest mark of health, character and personality. Its lack is the cause of all problems and its acquisition is the only possible solution thereof."
Dr. Claunch has lectured in practically every English-speaking country and has recently spent several months studying the health habits of the aborigines of Central Australia, New Zealand and the South Sea Islands. He has been in the educational field more than twenty years; is well-known as an editor, author, literary critic, scientist and philosopher. He will be assisted during the series by Florence M. Claunch, who will be extended a cordial welcome.

Pupils' Recital Gives Pleasure
A recital by some of her junior pupils was given at the studio of Mrs. C. Paget Mellor on Thursday. Mrs. Sidney Oliver presented certificates gained in the examinations of the Royal School of Music, London, and spoke a few words of encouragement to the students. Those taking part in the programme were Edith Cameron, Green Peacock, Bess Oliver, Marie Lock, Doris Haller, Dorothy Peacock, Isabel Mackenzie and Dorcas Muir.

Visiting City—W. D. Armstrong and A. C. Williams, of the Federal Department of National Revenue, at Ottawa, are staying at the Empress Hotel.

Steal Drill—By breaking a window on the premises of Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Company, Johnson Street, a thief stole an electric drill, city police were advised.

See Government—A delegation of the Vancouver Board of Trade interviewed members of the Government yesterday, while in the city for the day. Mainland affairs were under discussion, it is understood.

Police Raid Premises—Following a raid by police on premises over 557 Flagg Street, yesterday, five Chinese were lodged at the police station on charges of being found in a common gaming house.

Cornish Society—A meeting of the Victoria and District Cornish Association will be held tonight in the Maccabee's Hall, Fort Street, at 8 o'clock. All members are asked to attend as special business will be discussed.

To Return Today—George I. Warren, Victoria publicity commissioner, is expected to return to the city today, after an extended visit in Eastern Canada, where he attended a number of meetings for publicity bureau directors.

Land Transactions—The Province yesterday approved of a lease of six acres of land near Abbotsford to Phillip Runner, at an annual rental of $10. The Department of Public Works was authorized to buy a site for a proposed machinery shed at Fort St. John for $100.

Meeting Monday—Members of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, will gather at luncheon Monday, at 12:15 p.m., in the Empress Hotel, to hear W. S. Morden, K.C., of Toronto, second vice-president of the C.M.A.

Officers Named—The semi-annual meeting of Ward Four, C.O.P. Club, took place on Thursday, the following being elected to office: President, Mrs. W. A. Johnson; vice-president, C. Alexander, and J. Hall, secretary-treasurer. A five hundred card party will be held on November 30, and a dance on December 7.

Nominating Conventions—Between December 10 and January 17, seven nominating conventions will be held by the C.C.F. in Federal ridings in this province. It was intimated yesterday, that the number of the Victoria convention had been fixed for December 17. A number of names are being advanced as possible candidates.

Postpones Visit—General Tsai Sheng Shi, Chinese hero of the defence of Shanghai against the Japanese, will not arrive here Sunday as at first announced. Other plans have forced him to cancel his previous arrangements, it was announced yesterday. He plans now to make a visit to Victoria some time next month.

Guests at Luncheon—At yesterday's meeting of the Victoria Real Estate Board, which was held in Spencer's dining-room, President T. J. Goodlake introduced to the realtors the following guests: G. H. Harman, Robert Baird, Alderman Walter Luney, Alderman Alex Feden, J. W. Jones, John Baxter and R. F. Blandy.

To Meet Unemployed—Premier Pattullo announced yesterday that the Government had made arrangements with E. E. Winch, M.P.P., to receive a delegation of the unemployed at the Legislative Buildings, on December 7. The meeting, it is understood, will take the place of a mass demonstration planned by the C.C.F. and unemployed councils, combined, for December 4.

Will Publish Text—The Provincial Government arranged yesterday for publication of the Lower Mainland dairy products scheme in the British Columbia Gazette, The British Columbian at New Westminster, and The Chilliwack Progress, each on November 29. The commodity board will assume its official duties on December 1, under Hugh Davidson.

Commercial Law—R. B. Mathews, who from time to time has addressed the Real Estate Board on legal questions, is to be the speaker at the next meeting of that body at noon on December 7. His subject will be "Commercial Law." The addresses of Mr. Mathews have been very much enjoyed by members of the board and have proved most instructive.

Broke Sabbath Law—Yuen Fat, in the city police court yesterday, was convicted of having violated the law with respect to Sunday observance. F. L. "SAGITTARIUS"
If November 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m., from 4 to 6 p.m. and from 9 to 11 p.m.
You will have to resort to constructive thinking if you wish to be successful in your undertakings on this November 24. Hit and miss methods will prove unsatisfactory. Expectations will only be realized if concealed efforts are used to bring about their accomplishment. Attempts may be made to have you defer an important decision or action, and if the reasons presented are logical, it might be wise to do so. Activities in commercial lines may be slow, so invitations to participate in some form of entertainment can possibly be accepted without loss. This should be a good day for air, rail or water transportation. There is a possibility of your being requested to support a decidedly good movement and should you decide to, do so with enthusiasm. Married and engaged couples, as well as those deeply attached to one another, can have a far more peaceful and happy day if they only indulge in some very conservative form of diversion.
If a woman and November 24 is your birthday, you have undoubtedly a great deal of financial acumen. Guard against allowing your very conservative disposition to develop into penuriousness, for that would retard your future progress. If you allow your naturally charitable impulses to prompt your actions, the happiness you will enjoy will be a satisfying reward. It may pay you to maintain a liberal attitude towards the political and religious beliefs of others. A poetic imagination should enable you to write excellent prose and verse. Music, sketching, designing, as well as some of the finer branches of the culinary art may provide the proper channel through which you can gain financial competence. You should be very fastidious in your selection of a husband.

The child born on November 24, when it reaches its teens, may pass through a phase of being very fastidious in regard to its clothing and painstaking about its personal appearance. This trait should meet with encouragement, as it assures neatness and self-assurance.
If a man and November 24 is your natal day, you are very practical when it comes to money matters. Stocks, bonds, banking and book-keeping are lines for which you may be, by nature, well equipped to follow successfully. Literature, music and law also offer opportunities.

Interesting New Modes Will Be Seen at Show

Gorgeous gowns for formal evening wear, double-duty cocktail dresses, sports frocks of most attractive design and interesting specialities such as butcher-boy designs, cowboy slashed belts and scarf collars, are featured in the show, this afternoon, at the South African Plume Shop, at the Empress Hotel. The affair is under the auspices of the Commodore Broughton Chapter, I.O.D.E., and will start promptly at 4 o'clock.

A brief summary of some of the outstanding models being worn by the mannequins follows:

Mrs. F. G. Aldous will wear a black and white check frock and a French-style hat; a lacquer red velvet cocktail ensemble; a black moss crepe evening gown with a sequin jacket, and a Chanel cherry red transparent gown of the period 1900.

CHANEL RED

Miss Lillian Michaels will wear a striking Chanel-red gown with tulle top studded with brilliants; an exquisite pale salmon pink velvet Juliette gown, with which she wears a charming little pink net Juliette cap to match; a black transparent velvet gown with silver trimming, with which is worn a beautiful wrap made with a high Medici collar and train; a sage green moss crepe gown with French silver sequin trimming, and a smart brown hair wool sports frock with stiffened taffeta neckline. Miss Jean Moody will wear a cherry red sports outfit and a red suede stitched hat; a deep sea green formal tunic gown and a becoming debutante frock of palest pink net.

Miss Phyllis Addison will show a "lighter than navy" bolero frock, with white Bengaline trim; a rust transparent velvet Molyneux gown and a modish Schlapparelli striped wool dress with "cowboy" slash leather belt.

Among the gowns to be worn by Miss Betty Bapty is a navy and grey Chanel plaid sports frock, with a navy blue tam; a Russian tunic frock of artichoke green and black, worn with a stitched Cosack turban; a lime green Bavarian lace double-duty cocktail gown and a white transparent velvet princess gown with a Chanel sequin cape, over which she wears a black velvet wrap with wide lapin collar.

WOOL AND METALLIC

Miss Louie-Cameron will wear a black and gold wool and metallic plaid frock; a Patou purple "five o'clock" gown with silver and crystal trimming; a Molyneux green velvet formal cocktail dress, and a turquoise Spanish Leong lace gown.

Miss Doreen Wilson will wear a gown of the popular new alpaca; a black crepe dress with Russian embroidery at the neckline and Russian hat; a stunning Tuxedo-style dress, with red moire top.

Miss Ethel Hale will wear several lovely gowns, one a brown crepe and circle lace; a sapphire blue velvet with a Juliette yoke; a Spanish rust Crepe Beate; a double-duty satin cocktail dress, and an aqua green lace trimmed with mink.

$100 Prize To Be Given Best Play

Victoria playwrights, several of whom have shown much activity of late, with outstanding success in some instances, will have an opportunity to compete in the Toronto Women's Canadian Club literary competition this season. Details of the contest have just come to hand from the head office, 69 Bloor Street East, Toronto, which announces that it is possible that the winning play may be produced in that city. A prize of $100 will be awarded, this year, for the best play submitted.

Following are all the conditions of the competition:

1. The play shall be a one-act play, of such length as may be acted within the hour.
2. (a) The manuscript shall be typewritten on one side only and double spaced. (b) Three typewritten copies shall be required, each copy to be signed with the writer's pseudonym, printed or typewritten. (c) The name and address of the writer shall be enclosed in separate sealed envelopes, on the outside of which shall appear the writer's pseudonym. There shall be one envelope so marked for each typewritten copy. (d) The appearance of the writer's name or other identification marks on the manuscript shall disqualify that manuscript.

(e) Plays that have already been produced or published will not be eligible.

3. A stamped, addressed envelope shall be enclosed if return of manuscript is desired.

4. Manuscripts shall be addressed to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto, 69 Bloor Street East, and shall be sent by registered mail.

5. All manuscripts shall be delivered on or before March 1, 1935.

6. The contest is open to professional and non-professional writers throughout the Dominion.

7. Judges will be chosen from critics well known in Canada. Their decision will be final.

Anglican Young People

CHINESE

The Chinese Young People's Society has been organized for over a month. Three regular and two special meetings have been held since. The last meeting proved helpful and interesting when the devotional team led in worship, giving a study on "Christian Friendship." The intellectual team gave brief outlines on "Four Great Religions in Comparison With Christianity." Business was conducted with the president in the chair. Plans for the annual Christmas concert were discussed. The recreational team led in group games and basketball, which everyone enjoyed. The evening concluded with the singing of "Blest Be Thee That Binds" and the Missal Benediction.

"Doctor, I want to consult you about my stomach."

"But, madam, you are mistaken. I am a doctor of philosophy."

"Doctor of philosophy? What strange diseases there are nowadays."

KING LEVINSKY AND ART LASKY FIGHT TO DRAW

Chicago Fighter Upsets Plans of Minneapolis Boy

Reformed Fish Peddler Gains Furious Ten-Round Draw With Challenger for Heavyweight Crown Who Was Figured to Win—Two Judges and Referee All Differ—Baer Sees Battle

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.
CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (AP).—King Levinsky, Chicago's reformed fish peddler, was still clinging to the edge of the heavyweight championship situation, tonight, after fighting Art Lasky, of Minneapolis, ranked as challenger for the world's title, to a furious ten-round draw in the Chicago Stadium.

Levinsky came from behind in the last four rounds to move out in front by a slight margin. Lasky did some rallying himself to out-fight Levinsky in the final session and salvaged a draw decision.

VERDICT CLOSE

The fight was so close that the verdict of the two judges and the referee was split three ways. One of the judges voted in favor of Levinsky by a margin of one point, while the other called it a draw, and the referee, Dave Miller, cast his ballot in favor of Lasky by a margin of one point.

The 13,373 customers, who paid a gross gate of $30,570.75 to view the battle, also appeared to be as widely divided in their opinion as the officials.

The customers, however, leaned slightly to the pride of Maxwell Street, figuring he had scored an upset in holding Lasky to a draw. In a previous meeting at Los Angeles, Lasky won the decision.

Curiously enough, Levinsky used a weapon that heretofore—a straight left jab to the face. In the last four frames he stood off and poured a steady stream of straight lefts into Lasky's face, opening wounds in both eyebrows, and taking a nick out of his nose.

MAX BAER PRESENT

The battle was fought with Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion, looking on intently from a ringside seat.

Al Ekore, 184, young Philadelphia heavyweight, staged a brilliant finish to win a decision over Charles Massera, 181 3/4, Pittsburgh youngster, in the ten-round semi-final.

Buddy Baer, 240-pound kid brother of the world heavyweight champion Max Baer, used up only twenty-five seconds of a scheduled four-round bout in disposing of Frank Ketter, 202 1/2, Chicago.

WINDSOR IN 2-1 VICTORY
Bill Mackenzie's Goal Gives Bulldogs Close Win Over Tecumsehs

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP).—Relentless back-checking inspired by the latest recruits to local ranks was the factor that decided a hard-fought International Hockey League game here, tonight. On the strength of that persistent checking and some useful net-minding by Earl Robertson, Windsor Bulldogs defeated London Tecumsehs, 2-1.

It was a spectacular solo flight by Bill Mackenzie that swung the tide of battle in favor of Bulldogs. Mackenzie beat Herbie Stuart from point blank range. That tally shattered a 1-1 tie and ultimately decided the game in favor of Bulldogs.

Ellis Pringle, formerly of the Bulldogs, got the lone London goal. Eddie Convey took a pass from McManus inside the London defence, for the other Windsor goal.

Aubrey Webster and Sammy McManus, shipped here today by Montreal Maroons to replace Herb Cain and Gus Marker, recently recalled, made impressive debuts.

Jews Will Hold Olympic Games
TEL AVIV, Palestine, Nov. 23 (CP-Havas).—The second Jewish Olympic games will be held here April 2 to 7, 1935, and thirty-eight countries, including Germany, will be represented, it was announced. Competing athletes are expected from Canada, Great Britain, United States, Australia, Germany, Egypt, France, India, South Africa and most other countries.

The Victoria Bankers Intermediate team will play the Vancouver Bankers, champions of the Vancouver Intermediate League last year, at the skating rink on Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The local boys are holding practices every evening at the J.B.A.A., finishing up with a two-mile run in the gymnasium, and Captain Rome states his team could not be in better condition. The Vancouver team, with Yale, their 190-pound centre, is much the heavier team, but the local lads will have the advantage of a large floor to play on.

The local team will be picked from the following: Rome, Harris, Newmarch, Archibald, Holden, Todd, McKeown and Ford. Gus Lyons will lead the rooters on the side lines, so there will be some noise. The local team will play in red and white.

TWO FAVORED TO WIN RACE IN ENGLAND

Jean's Dream and Desmond Deane Joint Favorites to Capture Handicap

MANCHESTER, Nov. 23 (CP).—Jean's Dream and Desmond Deane were made split favorites for tomorrow's Manchester November Handicap in the final betting call-over tonight, each being quoted at 7 to 1. Previously, Jean's Dream had been firm favorite at 5 to 1.

Free Fare was 100 to 9, Irongrey 100 to 8, and Games-Master 100 to 7. Odds on other candidates for the mile and one-half race were: Robber Chief, 15 to 1; Pip-Emma, 100 to 5; Achtenan, 18 to 1; Spade and Scarlet River, 20 to 1; Thrappston, Money Box and Lucky Patch, 25 to 1; Artesian, 30 to 1; Solmint, 33 to 1.

Black Tulip, Negro, Canteener, Brunswick and Solar Boy were all 40 to 1. Foxmasque, St. Bowells and Lincrusta were 50 to 1; Hands Off and Misanthrope, 60 to 1; La Souricelle, 66 to 1; Sans Espoir, Serenita, Gainslaw and Epejen, 100 to 1.

Final entries also revealed many switches in riding arrangements, Gordon Richards, champion jockey, taking Canteener instead of Beary.

STARTERS AND RIDERS
The revised list of probable starters and jockeys follows: Brunswick (Jones), Lucky Patch (Herbert), Negro (Sam Wragg), Achtenan (Pat Desai), Gainslaw (Beary), Robber Chief (Perriman), Thrappston (Weston), Spade (W. Rickaby), Free Fare (Harry Wragg), Hands Off (Lane), Foxmasque (A. Wragg), Desmond Dene (Cliff Richards), Jean's Dream (Nevitt), Irongrey (Ticoll).

Solmint (Dines), La Souricelle (Stell), Solar Boy (Reeves), Pip-Emma (Smith), Misanthrope (Richards), Canteener (Gordon Richards), Sans Espoir (Lowrey), Black Tulip (Barber), Lincrusta (Evans), Gamesmaster (Fred Fox), Moneybox (Lynch), Scarlet River (D. Smith), Serenita (Robertson), St. Bowells (Foster), Epejen (—) and Artesian (Sharpe).

Remember When
(Twenty-Five Years Ago)
In the first division soccer matches this week-end, probably the hardest-fought game will be between the A.O.P. and the J.B.A.A. Both of these teams have been doing considerable quiet training on the side, and will be out to surprise each other, and as they are rather evenly matched, there is every reason to believe that it will be the most interesting soccer match played in some time. In fact, some of the fans about town say that when the final whistle is sounded the result is very liable to be the same as in the Garrison-A.O.P. game last week, when the pigskin was not booted through the posts once in the hour and a half of play.

The other game will be between the Victoria West and the Esquimalt. The Wests had an easy time of it with the naval villagers in their last meeting, and unless the Esquimalt kickers have improved wonderfully since the last encounter, the game should be a walkover for the wearers of the green and white shirts, who have already won the first division honors.

Ball Managers Pack Bags and Leave for Home

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23 (AP).—The high and mighty of baseball, with a few exceptions, had packed their bags and departed tonight, following adjournment of the thirty-third annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

The American Association furnished practically the only action of the day, by approving an all-star game or series after the regular pennant race rather than in mid-season.

This attraction will replace the little world series, which was scrapped when the association and the International League could reach no agreement regarding inter-league playoffs.

The only deal coming to light today before the exit of players, managers and managers, saw Paul Eastering, outfielder, going to Atlanta from Beaumont, Texas, for cash.

University of Florida Alligators have the heaviest string of tackles in America. Four of their tackles average 229 pounds, and the ten tackles of the entire squad have an average pound rating of 207.

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)
In the first division soccer matches this week-end, probably the hardest-fought game will be between the A.O.P. and the J.B.A.A. Both of these teams have been doing considerable quiet training on the side, and will be out to surprise each other, and as they are rather evenly matched, there is every reason to believe that it will be the most interesting soccer match played in some time. In fact, some of the fans about town say that when the final whistle is sounded the result is very liable to be the same as in the Garrison-A.O.P. game last week, when the pigskin was not booted through the posts once in the hour and a half of play.

The other game will be between the Victoria West and the Esquimalt. The Wests had an easy time of it with the naval villagers in their last meeting, and unless the Esquimalt kickers have improved wonderfully since the last encounter, the game should be a walkover for the wearers of the green and white shirts, who have already won the first division honors.

FINANCE - COMMERCE - MARKETS

Stock and Bond Prices Advance At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP).—Buying in stocks today was the most aggressive in two weeks and stirred the market into a moderate advance. The forward movement embraced virtually the whole list. American Telephone gained 1 point to 108. Share turnover expanded to 1,310,191 shares. Gains of 1 to 3 points were registered in Allied Chemical, Bendix Aviation, American Can, Santa Fe, Chrysler, Bethlehem Steel, Columbia Carbon, Union Pacific, Du Pont, T. I. Case and Deere. Air Reduction, Coca Cola, American Tobacco, B. Eastern Kodak and Liggett & Myers sold at new 1934 peaks on advances ranging up to 2 points. In the Canadian list, Bell Telephone of Canada spurted 4 points to 127. St. Regis Paper preferred advanced 1-1/2. Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" Distillers, Seagram, Noranda and International Nickel were higher.

Ford of Canada advanced more than 1 point. Canadian Pacific Railway improved fractionally. A revival of secondary loans gave the bond market an upward push today. Coincident with a rally in stocks, rails and industrials gained 1 to 2 points. In the foreign section, bonds of Denmark edged up for new highs for the year.

TORONTO GOLDS CLOSE EASIER

Senior Issues Drop Small Amounts but Bring General Softness

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP).—Weakness in the gold shares pulled down quotations on the mining list of the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metals firmed at the close.

Net losses of 35 to 75 cents were registered for Demeter, McIntyre, Hollinger and Bralorne. Wright-Hargreaves and Teck-Hughes weakened 10 to 15 cents each; Little Long Lac, God's Lake, Bobo and Gunnar forfeited 2 to 7 cents.

In the silver, Eldorado dipped 4 points and smaller recessions cropped out in Castle, White Eagle and Bear Exploration. Nipissing finished 11 cents up.

Virginia Vane Says:

ADVISE FIANCE OF MOTHER'S CHANGE OF HEART—SEE IF HE CANNOT CHANGE ALSO

Dear Virginia Vane: I have been engaged to a young man for two years, and we plan to get married within the coming year. I love him dearly, and I know that he loves me, but there is one fault that he has that I find hard to overlook, and over which we continually quarrel.

When he first started going with me my mother did not like him. She disapproved of his friends, and did not feel that he was the right one for me. She showed her feelings by constantly chaperoning our every minute, and we both resented it. Now that she sees I have made up my mind on the subject, she has become reconciled to the match, and has admitted to me that she really likes and respects her future son-in-law.

My fiancé will not forget her early treatment of him, and is openly rude to her at every opportunity. The nicer she tries to make things for him the more hostile he becomes. I love my mother deeply, and this enmity between the two people I love is spoiling my happiness. Can you suggest any way in which I can bring them together?—B. D.

Have you confided to your boy friend how much your mother's feeling for him has changed? It would be asking a lot for your mother to apologize for her natural distrust when he first came on the scene, but someone should certainly advise the young man that your mother's attitude is no longer hostile, but rather is extremely sympathetic with the marriage, and genuinely likes the idea of having him in the family. It is a strong person, indeed, that can help liking someone who really likes them, and if your fiancé once got the idea in his head that your mother just wasn't adapting herself to a difficult situation, but really figured him to be the Mr. Right for you, his attitude must change.

It would appear that so far your mother has been doing all the work in bringing about a reconciliation. Don't you believe that your boy friend ought to realize that it is high time he did something to help the situation. If he really loves you, your young man must see how much grief this friction is causing you, and will do everything in his power to remove it. And also his present pigheadedness is certainly not going to make him a pleasant living companion after you're married. If something that means so much to you now fails to bring him off his high horse, have you any reason to believe that he will change after marriage or that he is likely to respect your wishes any more?

No, you'd better have a straight talk with this hard-headed youth and demand that he show a little forgiveness in this small matter, or you'll find it hard to trust your future happiness to one so devoid of human kindness. Perhaps it is well that this stubbornness has shown up before your marriage, for such a weakness can very easily wreck an otherwise happy match. There can be no excuse for rudeness, and it is especially unbecoming in a man's relationship with his womanfolk.

Rose: Be assured that your present boy friend loves you greatly. He would never have confided his weakness to you if he didn't. By doing so he has taken the chance of losing you in order to warn you of that part of his character that might ruin your life together.

You must be prepared, then, to either come up to the standards he has set for you, or reconcile yourself to his criticisms. It would be better for both of you if you could find one person to fall in love with, but if you are really convinced that your's is the only love, then you'd better recognize the pitfalls that handicap you, and form a close partnership to avoid them. Only a complete understanding, and a firm determination will keep such a union as you contemplate from disaster.

EXPLAIN TO FIANCEE THAT GIRL FRIEND IS RUINING ROMANCE

My Dear Miss Vane: It will probably seem silly to you, but I am jealous of my girl friend's association with another girl. We have been engaged for six months, and I feel that we love each other; at least I am sure that I love my fiancée deeply enough to guarantee a happy marriage.

About the time we became engaged this other girl came into the picture. She had just returned from college, and immediately attached herself to my girl friend. As neither work, they are together all through the day. This girl doesn't like me. She makes no attempt to conceal the fact that she thinks my fiancée is making a great mistake, and is constantly getting dates for her, with the expressed purpose of winning my friend away from me.

Another thing that annoys me about the relationship is that they feel they must have cocktails every day, and as my girl friend is very young, I do not think it too good for her. To date I have not said very much about the business, but I feel that if things go on as they are, I will soon lose the girl that I love.—Ed.

Indeed, you would deserve to lose your lady-love if you didn't make any more of a fight to hold her than you are now doing. Undoubtedly the thing that has been holding you back is the fear that you might be thought ridiculous if you were to create an issue over your girl friend's association with another girl. It is unthinkable that you should experience any jealousy over their friendship. However, her influence is so important that you'd better disregard your feelings in the matter and risk the chance of your appearing ridiculous.

At your very first opportunity have a really serious talk with your future wife. Tell her that as long as her girl friend is so much against you, your present alliance naturally means that she, too, is against you. No marriage can possibly endure when one of the parties is so easily persuaded to desert it. She must show you that you do come first in her thoughts, even though it means giving up her present friendship. Leave it up to her, but insist that she show you in no uncertain way that her engagement takes precedence over her other activities. It should be clear to you that your fiancée must agree in part with her friend's hostility toward you, or else she could not condone it by constantly associating with her. Perhaps it is best that the weakness in her affection for you is being pointed out to you in this way. It may wake you up to the fact that there are other girls in the world who are perhaps better fitted to be Mrs. Ed.

Do not let your present sentimental attachment blind you to your girl friend's disloyalty in making a pal with your sworn enemy. Have it out with her, and insist that your engagement depends from here out upon her living up to the standard upon which it was made, and that you are quite prepared to give the whole thing up unless she finds it more valuable to her than her present desire to play around.

CHAPTER XLII

Joan, having crossed the frontier from France to Spain, was racking along with Farley in a lumbering "Diligence" into which the passengers had been bundled when an accident happened to their train. The ark-like vehicle was cramped and crowded and bitter cold with the piercing winds which blew down from the Sierras.

Farley, sitting straight and disapproving beside her mistress, commented, "You'll catch your death." Joan shook her head. "I'm as warm as toast with this rug over me. You'd better take my fur coat, Farley."

"I don't want it, Miss Joan. I wear red flannels. I don't hold with those wisps of crepe in winter time."

Joan flashed a smile at her. Farley was a great delight. The Englishwoman's lack of humor and her unawareness of it made her seem perpetually like one of the figures in a comic sheet, who, while playing out their own drama of life with seriousness, are side-splitting to the spectator.

"We've got to eat at an inn in the next town," Farley stated with a sort of breathless indignation, "and stay all night. We can't get a train until morning. I never heard of such management."

"But you've never been to Spain," Joan reminded her. "Farley, look at that girl down near the door, with the crescent curl on her cheek. She's like somebody out of a book."

"Bold and brazen, I call her," Joan's laugh rippled, and then the two of them ceased to talk as they watched the animated scene about them. Everybody else was talking, and there was a wealth of gesticulation, much showing of white teeth, much gossamer-tossing of heads. Crowded thus into the lantern-lighted wagon, the Spaniards showed a picturesqueness which they had lacked in the more modern setting of the train—and their faces were like those in the paintings by Goya—the women with a certain dark sweetness, the men saturnine, clean-shaven, mahogany-colored.

No men here like the men in Maine—like old John Leonard—rugged of build, their faces chiseled with the fine lines of stern purpose, their eyes lighted by the laughter which is their Yankee inheritance. No women here like those slender Puritan goddesses, silver and white and blue, who come to old age as birch tree comes to its winter, still slender and straight, though stripped of their summer charm.

These women and these men—a whole world of difference between them and Joan's own people. Romance here was guarded by iron grilles and shut away by high walls. Love-making was a matter of secretive signals; a flash of the eye, the wave of a hand, a rose tossed from a window, a guitar serenading in the night. Hot blood was held in leash by the presence of a duenna. Yet everywhere there was an awareness of the passionate adventure. Joan felt as if she moved in a medieval world. "It's a sort of Canterbury pilgrimage," she said to Farley.

They laughed as Farley said: "I wish it was Canterbury."

They arrived at the inn to find it a dusky place, with clean rooms whose windows showed a shadowy mountain range, its peaks reaching up towards a star-spangled sky. When they had made themselves ready for dinner, Farley and Joan went down to eat at a long table with other passengers from the coach. There were big dishes of fruit on the table and coarse but heavy napery. Joan had an egg poached in oil, a bowl of lettuce crisp, sweet bread, and at the end golden-skinned grapes and fresh figs. Other people at the table ordered heartier foods—roast meats and platters of vermicelli, partridges dressed with burnt sugar, duckling with Guava jelly, veal delicately breaded and with a distinctive sauce, but Joan was satisfied with her more delicate choice, and felt a sense of esthetic repulsion.

Later when she got into bed, she found a hot water bag at her feet. "You'd freeze before morning without it," Farley informed her mistress.

"Would I?"

Then as the maid opened the window for the night and let in a stream of icy air, Joan curled down into a warmth of her nest. "It's heavenly," she said and smiled sleepily, and Farley, tucking her in, said adoringly, "You look as snug as a kitten."

When Farley had gone, Joan lay gazing out through the open window into the night. So she was really in Spain. She had come because of a letter from Nancy Hallam—a letter which had arrived when Joan was feeling desolate, with Penelope gone, with the winter winds howling about the house, with the winter snows drifting high.

Penelope's old uncle had begged her to stay with him for a time. "Since his wife's death," Penelope wrote, "he seems feeble and ill. I cannot desert him."

Farley had come to the house in the woods to keep Joan company. There was also a cook brought from Portland because Farley did not belong in the kitchen, and Joan could not, of course, play chef to her maid. And with these formalities had come a lessening of the charm of the old house in the woods. Penelope's sturdy and strong personality had, while she was there, pervaded everything. She and Joan had seemed to preserve together the unities of simple living as they had swept and dusted and cooked and washed dishes. But now with Farley's eye as it were upon her; with meals being served to her alone in state and elegance, there came a sense of incongruity. Farley did not fit in, the cook had no real field for her culinary talents, and the place needed its mistress to make something besides a solitude.

And just as this sense of solitude had begun to weigh upon her, there had come to Joan a letter from Nancy Hallam. It was written from Barcelona, on the paper of a famous hostelry:

"Will you tell me, my dear, what you think you are doing? Shut up there in the woods, like a nun in a cloister? When over here, there's such a world for you to live in? Of course I know that you are bounded on the north and south by Penelope Sears and your own small town traditions, and on the east and west by your romantic ideals and your mid-Victorian conventions. But over here, my child, people live just to be living. They worship the gods of a good time, and if they lose their Edens, they find thrilling interests outside of the garden. I have always felt that Adam and Eve before the fall dwell in a somewhat restricted area, and that when they passed out through the gate of Eden, they were bound to find the chance to frolic."

"Am I shocking you, my little Joan? Oh, well, I want you to come over here and eat the apple... to share with us for a time this glad gay world, and if you don't like it, you can go back to your Penelopes and your prunes and prisms."

"But joking aside, I want you to come for Drew's sake. He is absolutely miserable. He watches every mail for a letter and when none comes he is so depressed that it is pitiful. Why he is so stingy, Joan, with your little notes? They give him no hint of what is on your mind. Are you trying to punish him? And if so, why? Surely you can't think that he wants to marry you for your money? There are plenty of rich women in the world. And Drew could have any one of a half dozen. But for him there is just you. Won't you believe it? Joan, he isn't perfect. I told you that in the beginning. But neither is any man... and he cares such an awful lot..."

"I wouldn't say this if I thought you were happy. But I am sure you are not. And I know that if you shut Drew out of your life, you will hurt yourself horribly. So why crucify yourself? When Drew worships the ground you walk on? And now, do come. You'll adore it. You are too young to live up there alone with Penelope and your pussy cats. And Drew and I both love you. Not for what you have, but for what you are. You can believe it or not, but it's true."

It was a very subtle letter. Joan re-read it until certain of its sentences seemed burned in her mind: "Drew is miserable... he worships the ground you walk on..." Since she had last seen him in Baltimore, her correspondence with her lover had been intermittent and unsatisfactory. She had refused to let him come to her. "Why keep going over the same old thing?" she had said in reply to his constant reiteration, "I want you for my wife. And when he had urged that she let him come to Maine, she had said: "I'd rather you wouldn't. Something within me seems dead. The old glamour is gone. I don't know whether I can ever recapture it."

At last he had written that he and Nancy were leaving for Spain. "I am to look into some Spanish investments which Nancy and I made some years ago. And since you won't see me the ocean might as well be between us. We must go at once. Joan, won't you take the next boat and join us at Barcelona? I'll promise to be good and not worry you, and perhaps you'll let me try to win my way back to your heart."

His letter had thrown her into a perfect panic of loneliness, but Penelope's safe presence had saved her from flinging everything to the winds and following. "My dear, you must not. Give yourself more time."
